Patrick Dodd, the butcher, wishes to announce to his customers that he will be unable to attend to business for several weeks. After recovering from injuries, he will resume business.

All roads lead to the Roderick theater, the popular little nickel amusement place. The pictures are the finest and clearest ever seen in this city, and the one who's eyes to watch them. An excellent line has been selected for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and will include "Will Graceland Forgive," "A Suspect in the Youth," "Poverty and Prosperity," "Dancing Legs," "Captured by the Telephone," and "The Girl Across the Way." Mr. O'Neill will sing that sweet, pathetic ballad, "The Flowers Outside the Cafe." The illustrations being beautiful. The management have had much praise on the high quality of the pictures and large crowds are expected this week.

BROADWAY THEATER.

"The Shoemaker."

A melodrama considerably out of the ordinary and interesting by Lew Welch, one of the brightest salaried artists and withal most well known comedian and character actors before the public, will be presented for the first time in Norwich at the Broadway theater this evening. It is by Hal Reid and is entitled "The Shoemaker." During the progress of the play's four acts there is not a dull moment. The action is constant and plausible and the plot is developed in an intelligent and natural manner. "The Shoemaker" offers from contemporary plays of the same kind in that it makes a strong appeal to the heart, depicting life as it exists.
There is no attempt at exaggeration or spectacular effect. It is a play founded on the realities of human nature and constructed by a master hand for the purpose of edifying, amusing and instructing. Mr. Welch has divers opportunities to display his unusual talents. He is the moving spirit in the production and is ably supported by a company of capable players.

During the play's progress Mr.
Welch will give, in the second act, the specialty that made him the most talked about and highly praised performer in vaudeville.

PERSONS TALKED ABOUT.
Hart Lyman, editor of The New York Tribune, will deliver the primary lecture on journalism at Yale this year.

Gov. Regis H. Post of Porto Rico has been a member of the Bayport (L. I.) club since 1921 and was its chief in 1926-3.

Emma Calve will appear in Havana theater, Feb. 9, 10 and 11.
This is the first time a singer of such reputation has appeared in Havana in many years.

John Burroughs, the venerable naturalist and friend of President Roosevelt, is going to college again. Mr.
Burroughs is a student at Cornell, in the agricultural department.

Carrie Burcham, superintendent of public schools of Covington county, is another Washington state woman who has achieved success in politics. She was born near Bloomfield, Ind.

Mrs. Ellen H. Richards was elected president of the American Home Economic association, which was recently organized in Washington with a membership of more than 700.

Congressman Lefan has distributed 24,000 packages of garden seed among his constituents in York and Adams counties. The original allotment to each congressional district was 10,000 packages.

Representative C. C. Highsmith has introduced a bill in the legislature at Austin making it a felony to steal a dog in Texas and menacing the dog thief with from one to four years in the penitentiary.

Rocheester has a sort of a fairy godfather or patron saint in George Eastman. Not long ago Mr. Eastman gave the city a big tract of land for a park, and within a day or two has sent his check for $400,000 to the Rocheester hospital.

Gen. David E. Austin, of Brooklyn, chief of coast artillery of the state of New York, will complete, February 14, a half century of service in the national guard, and the military men are taking measures to honor this veteran on that date.

Secretary Newberry of the navy department has declined the presidency of the Aero club of Washington, of which Thomas Nelson Page is the vice president and Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, is one of the prominent members.

Emperor William has conferred the decoration of the Order Pour Le Merite on J. S. Sargent, the American artist, in recognition of his pre-eminence as a portrait painter, and a similar decoration has been conferred upon James Bryce, British ambassador to the United States.

Queen Alexandra is said to have very much admired a blue topaz that was brought from Queensland and is a rarity, the majority of the stones being of the yellow type. A geologist picked it up in a quarry where it was used as a missile to hurl at intruding dogs. It is described as looking like a limp drop of sea water.

To Bertha Schultz, a young dressmaker in Hamburg, Germany, $10,000 was bequeathed on condition that she never marries a man engaged in an intellectual profession. She is now ready engaged to an accountant, and she and her fiancé are now endeavoring to persuade the law that the work is purely mechanical.

Lady Arthur Paget will sail this month for the United States to make a visit for the first time in years. She has had a number of very severe illnesses that kept her confined to her bed for months at a time, and consequently she went very little into society. She is one of the few invalids whom King Edward has personally visited.

A new monument to John Morton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, is planned for his grave, in Chester, Pa. The plain granite shaft now stands there. As Morton is famed for casting the vote that broke the tie in the continental congress and decided the adoption of the Declaration, this is regarded as belonging to congress as well as the Pennsylvania legislature.

Squarely Met the Situation Mayor Hooker of Hartford had the somewhat embarrassing duty of welcoming a convention of bartenders on Sunday. The mayor met the situation squarely. He said that he was glad that he had as much right to do business as anybody else, but that they were always on the ragged edge of doing wrong, and that the first thing they should learn was to obey the law, whether they liked it or not.

His Intention Clear.
An Oregon widower gave a banquet to 75 widows to celebrate his birthday.
The multitude made his intentions perfectly clear.—Atlanta Journal.

The Superior Sex.
Generally a woman's reason for doing a thing is she hasn't any, and it turns out much better than with a man who has.—New York Press.

A Slam at Ade.
George Ade says that he is pleased with Berlin. Perhaps Berlin can be pleased with Ade. Ade is a comedian at home.—Milwaukee Journal.

Chief among the natural riches of Asia Minor are the vast forests which cover the interior mountain ranges of the country. In the Vilayet of Smyrna, for example, there are 1,800,000 acres of valuable woodlands which comprise nearly one-eighth of the entire vilayet or province.

POETRY.

AMBITION.

What is it to be great; is it to climb With eager, tireless foot the highest peak.
Or, with a child's unquestioning faith, God's will and, patiently, abide His time?

Be mine the lower, thine the higher Honors in life, enduring fame thy lot, And mine to live unknown, to die forgot.
Each loyal to the dictates of his heart.

Equal in loyalty, then equal need.
For service rendered, whatever it be,
Of honest toil, of flower, of proudest forest tree,
Of all her rich womb bears bath nature best.

To every soul of man there comes a call For service that no other soul can do: God's will and, patiently, abide His
time.

—Charles Sprague Smith.

MY CREED.
This is my creed: To do some good.
To bear my ills without complaining.
To press on as brave man should For honors that are worth the gaining.

To seek no profits where I may By winning others' grief to others.
To do some service day by day In helping on my toiling brothers.

This is my creed: To close my eyes To little faults of those around me;
To strive to be when each day dies Some better than the morning found me.

To ask for no unearned applause,
To thank the river still I reach it.
To always have a worthy cause,
To fearlessly and fairly preach it.

This is my creed: To wisely shun The sloughs in which the foolish lead where I may be the one Whom weaker men should choose to follow.

To keep my standards always high.
To find my task and bravely do it;
To be a better man than I was Could even live half way up to it.
—Chicago Record-Herald.
